

Don't be fooled by common energy myths

Eating carrots will greatly improve your eyesight, cracking your knuckles leads to arthritis and watching too much TV will harm your vision. We've all heard the old wives' tales, but did you know there are also many misconceptions about home energy use? Don't be fooled by common energy myths.

Myth: The higher the thermostat setting, the faster the home will heat (or cool).

Many people think that walking into a chilly room and raising the thermostat to 85 degrees will heat the room more quickly. This is not true.

Thermostats direct a home's HVAC system to heat or cool to a certain temperature. Drastically adjusting the thermostat setting will not make a difference in how quickly you feel warmer. The same is true for cooling. The Department of Energy recommends setting your thermostat to 78 degrees during summer months and 68 degrees during winter months.

Myth: Opening the oven door to check on a dish doesn't really waste energy.

While it can be tempting to check the progress of that dish you're cooking in the oven, opening the oven door DOES waste energy. Every time the oven door is opened, the temperature inside is reduced by as much as 25 degrees, delaying the progress of your dish and, more importantly, costing you additional money. If you need to check the progress of a dish, try using the oven light instead.

Myth: Ceiling fans keep your home cool while you're away.

Believe it or not, many people think this is true. Ceiling fans cool people, not rooms. Ceiling fans circulate room air but do not change the temperature. A running ceiling fan in an empty room is only adding to your electricity use. Remember to turn fans off when you're away and reduce your energy use.

Myth: Reducing my energy use is too expensive.

Many consumers believe that reducing energy use requires expensive up-front costs, like purchasing new, more efficient appliances or making construction upgrades to an older home. The truth is, consumers who make small changes to their energy efficiency habits, such as turning off lights when not in use, sealing air leaks and using a programmable thermostat, can see a reduction in energy consumption.

Remember, energy efficiency doesn't have to be difficult. Focus on small changes to save big. Learn more about ways to save energy by visiting shelbyelectric.coop or calling 800-677-2612.

Cooperatives and Jobs...

Cooperative businesses are run by those who live and work in the community, keeping jobs at home.

In October, co-ops all across the United States are celebrating the benefits and values that cooperatives bring to their members and communities.

While co-ops operate in many industries and sectors of the economy, seven cooperative principles set us apart from other businesses: voluntary and open membership; democratic member control; member's economic participation; autonomy and independence; education, training and information; cooperation among cooperatives; and concern for community.

We are in it for the long haul strengthening communities through jobs, service and community involvement.

CO-OP MONTH 2016

Energy Efficiency Tip of the Month

An average household dedicates about 5% of its energy budget to lighting. Switching to energy-efficient lighting is one of the fastest ways to cut your energy bills. By replacing your home's five most frequently used light fixtures or bulbs with models that have earned the ENERGY STAR rating, you can save $75 each year.

REAL LIFE REAL POWER

Getting Real with Marla and PWR-net Troubleshooting

This unfriendly dinosaur may rear its head at the most inconvenient times, mocking deadlines or turning a relaxing evening into a technology terror. What can a person do to regain access to their link to the cyber world and conquer the cave-man way of communicating?

Regardless of whether you choose to contact our PWR-net office, follow the tips located on the back of your PWR-net bill or listed within this article, it is helpful to be able to identify the internet equipment at your home to begin trouble-shooting (pictured below).

First, make sure nothing is blocking the path between the CPE outside your home and the tower from which you receive your PWR-net signal. Once you verify the signal is not being blocked by new growth on trees or other issues obvious by sight, you can try the following tips:

1. Unplug the wireless router from the electrical outlet for 30 seconds and then plug it back in. Try the Internet.
2. Restart the computer. Try the Internet.
3. Unplug the CPE power injector from the electrical outlet for 30 seconds and then plug it back in. It may take up to five minutes to reboot. Try the Internet.
4. Try bypassing the router. Unclip the cord from the router's Internet port. Some routers have this labeled. It will not be labeled with a number. Plug the cord directly into a laptop or desktop computer. Try the Internet.

The router may need to be replaced if the Internet works by bypassing the wireless router. A router that is more than five years old is considered outdated. Older routers were designed for passing data, while much of today's Internet use transmits video.

If these tips do not get you connected, please contact PWR-net, Monday - Friday from 7 a.m. - 4 p.m. at 1-877-994-2323, or by emailing troubleshooting@pwr-net.coop.
